

What we do

We supply customized iPods for any event.

We help keep event costs down – customers don't pay for a DJ when they don't need one.

We give our customers complete control over music selections – they know in advance every song that will be played at their event.

How it works

For any type of event we speak one-on-one with our customers to determine their overall goals for their event. By asking a lot of questions and making educated suggestions, we examine what music mix will work best for their event. We also run through the logistics of the event to ensure every detail is properly covered. After finalizing any specifics such as special equipment or timing of certain songs we deliver the music, show the customer how the iPod and equipment works and leave them to enjoy their event.
